GAP EXPLANATION

I graduated from the Duke University Physician Assistant Program on August 8, 2014, and I was eligible to sit for the Physician Assistant National Certification Exam (PANCE) starting on August 15, 2014. I took the PANCE on August 21, 2014, and I became certified as a physician assistant with the National Commission on Certification of Physician Assistants (NCCPA) on August 28, 2014. I was granted a license to practice as a physician assistant in California on September 5, 2014. I interviewed as a physician assistant at Coastal Pain and Spinal Diagnostics on September 16, 2014, and I accepted the position on September 29, 2014. I started that position on October 6, 2014.
